

Video title: The 411 on ETFs

Voiceover

Let's talk the basics of Exchange Traded Funds or ETFs and whether or not they're right for you and your financial goals.

An ETF is like a basket made up of stocks, bonds or any other kind of asset you can invest in.

And like stocks, ETFs can be traded at any time during the day in order to take advantage of market conditions. Mutual funds are only available to buy or sell at the end of the trading day.

ETFs are built to follow the performance of certain benchmarks or indexes like the S&P 500 or a specialized dividend index, as examples.

Another advantage of investing in ETFs is their lower fee structure. Lower fees means more of your money is available to invest.

Working with a financial advisor? Don't forget to ask them about tax-friendly benefits that many ETFs offer.

If you're looking to invest in a way that's convenient, diversified and with lower costs, a range of ETFs could be your key to long-term financial success.

Disclaimer: Commissions, trailing commissions, management fees, brokerage fees and expenses may be associated with investments in mutual funds and ETFs. Please read the mutual fund or ETF's prospectus, which contains detailed investment information, before investing. Mutual funds and ETFs are not guaranteed. Their values change frequently, and investors may experience a gain or a loss. Past performance may not be repeated.

The statements contained herein are based on information believed to be reliable and are provided for information purposes only. Where such information is based in whole or in part on information provided by third parties, we cannot guarantee that it is accurate, complete or current at all times. It does not provide investment, tax or legal advice, and is not an offer or solicitation to buy. Graphs and charts are used for illustrative purposes only and do not reflect future values or returns on investment of any fund or portfolio. Particular investment strategies should be evaluated according to an investor's investment objectives and tolerance for risk. Fidelity Investments Canada ULC and its affiliates and related entities are not liable for any errors or omissions in the information or for any loss or damage suffered.

This information is for general knowledge only and should not be interpreted as tax advice or recommendations. Every individual's situation is unique and should be reviewed by his or her own personal legal and tax consultants.

The index returns are shown for comparative purposes only. Indexes are unmanaged, and their returns do not include any sales charges or fees as such costs would lower performance. It is not possible to invest directly in an index.

© 2021 Fidelity Investments Canada ULC. All rights reserved.

The mutual funds/ETFs are not sponsored, endorsed, sold, or promoted by FMR Co., Inc. FMR Co., Inc. makes no representation regarding the advisability of investing in the mutual funds/ETFs.